

WORKSHOP

Citizen science for the western ringtail possum

Calling all western ringtail possum champions and citizen scientists...we need your expertise!

A new research project is happening to look at ways citizen science can support the conservation of the western ringtail possum.

If you have any experience in community based monitoring or management for the possum we'd like to hear about your experiences and ideas. Please come along to one of our two workshops.

The project is being funded by the Threatened Species Recovery Hub of the National Environmental Science Programme. The project team is working with local partners to find locally relevant solutions.

Western ringtail possum at Locke Nature Reserve.
Photo Kaori Yokochi, Roberta Bencini CC BY 4.0

Where: Busselton Community Resource Centre

When: 10 am - 3:30 pm, Thurs 24 May OR 10 am - 3:30 pm, Fri 25 May

RSVP: Please contact Dr Rochelle Steven
r.steven@uq.edu.au

Western ringtail possums
Photo:Boyd Wykes

National Environmental Science Programme